Anniversaries Of Atlantic

Act Observed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—President Roosevelt, on the eve of his "victory in Europe" war strategy conference with Prime Minister Churchill, today declared that the United Nations "stand on the threshold of major developments in this war."

The chief executive renewed his Casablanca declaration, made jointly with the British premier, that the war against the Axis powers will be prosecuted until they cry for "unconditional surrender."

"We are determined that we shall gain total victory over our enemies," the President declared.

His declaration was made in a statement on the occasion of the second anniversary of the signing of the Atlantic Charter and the sixth anniversary of the Social Security Act.

To Aims Reiterated
Mr. Roosevelt reemphasized two primary war aims—the right of self-determination for the peoples of the world and world-wide collaboration in the post-war world for "security for all."

"I would cite particularly two of its (the Atlantic Charter) purposes and principles," the President said.

FATHER GIVES AWAY FOUR OF SIX CHILDREN

NEWARK, Aug. 14—Jim Young, a 25-year-old father of six children, couldn't understand what all the fuss was about today.

Sure, he had "given away" four of his brood of six, but what was a young father to do when his wife was in jail on a charge of adultery and there was no one to take care of the kids, the oldest of whom is six?

The youthful father advertised in a Newark paper for foster-parents for his children, and hundreds flooded their small flat, he said. He didn't know anything about the people he gave his children to, but "they were clean and neat-looking, spoke well and seemed to be nice people."

The children are "getting properly fed and cared for at last," Young said.

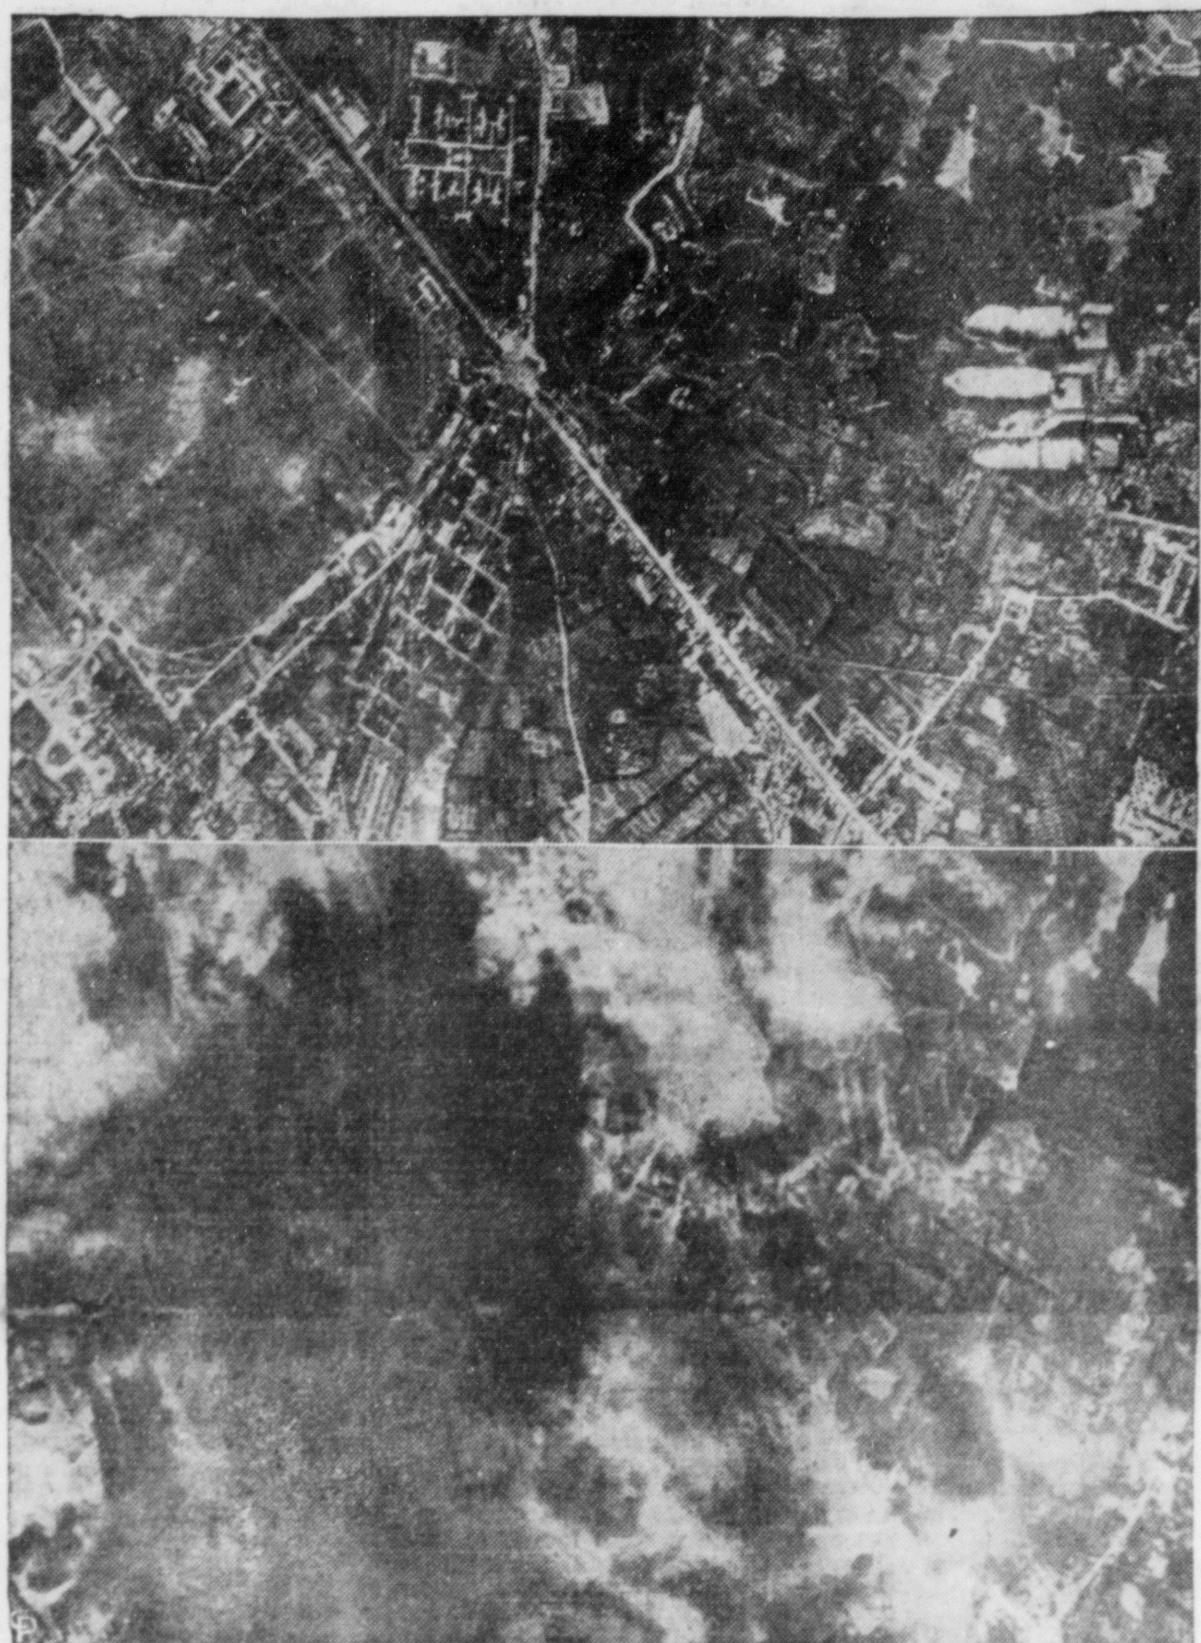

The complaint against him was issued by the Children's Aid Society, so the courts would investigate, said officials. Newark ordinances require persons taking children into their homes who are not relatives to obtain a license from the health department.

NAPLES AIRFIELD--NOW YOU SEE IT, NOW YOU DON'T

In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 14—An 18-year-old former psychopathic patient at Cleveland's city hospital today was held by police for the slaying of Charles and James Collins, 13-year-old twins, after he confessed to police that he shot them to death "for the heck of it."

Detective Inspector Frank Terry said the confessed slayer, Henry Hagert, who will be 18 next month, was picked up by police while driving a blue car, which fitted the description given by 9-year-old Jack Buchanan, who was beaten and allegedly criminally attacked earlier. Given

INTERNMENT OF SKI CHAMPION RECOMMENDED

GLOUCESTER, N. J., Aug. 14—Greta Paumgarten, 35-year-old international ski champion and a native of Austria, today was being held here by the Bureau of Immigration pending action by Washington officials on a recommendation that she be interned for the duration.

Arrested at a children's camp near Buffalo, N. Y., several weeks ago, she was given a secret hearing. She has denied ever participating in subversive activities.

Miss Paumgarten won the international ski championship at the Olympic games in Germany in 1939 and has been in this country on a temporary permit ever since.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Klerman

Well, a little while ago we had potatoes spoiling by the carload because a government agency wouldn't permit icing. Now it's the shrimp catch that's in danger of spoiling.

What are they doing with all the ice anyway? Shipping it to Iceland?

We tried to get the information out of an ice man and he just stood there picking his teeth with his tongue, smiling mysteriously and saying "Wouldn't Hitler like to know?"

In New Orleans, supply boat crews marched on an ice plant and took over the whole production to ice up ten shrimp boats. That was the only way they could get ice.

It doesn't make any sense to us. Are they going to bomb Europe or freeze it?

Don't tell us they've given Ickes secret control over the ice ponds!

Anybody but old Harold the herald.

He's too hot a boy to be running the ice industry.

Thought for the day: What this country needs is a good five cent piece of ice.

Swiss Correspondent Says
People Demonstrating
For End To War

LONDON, Aug. 14—The damage done to Milan in the mammoth Royal Air Force assault early yesterday just prior to the second American bombing of Rome resembled the destruction which might follow a tremendous earthquake, Swiss correspondents in Italy reported today.

Life in Milan was said to be almost paralyzed and dispatches from the Italo-Swiss frontier said that authorities were beset by new popular demonstrations demanding that the Badoglio government make peace with the Allies.

Shouts for peace also were sent up by throngs which gathered in Rome following the forceful new daylight raid on the Littorio and San Lorenzo railway yards by bomber squadrons under command

NERO DIES FOR COUNTRY; OWNER DISPLAYS STAR

CRANFORD, N. J., Aug. 14—A gold star hung in the window of John Buris, who had no children eligible for service in the armed forces.

The hero in whose memory the star was ordered was Nero, 4-year-old German shepherd dog. As a member of the army K-9 corps, Nero was enlisted May 21.

Yesterday Buris was notified by the War department that Nero had died "in line of duty." The dog had "acquainted himself as a good soldier should," the government telegram added.

For Germans, Italians

LONDON, Aug. 14—Certain circles in the capital of China report that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has been invited to attend the discussions of Allied leaders in Quebec, an Exchange Telegraph company dispatch from Chungking said today.

London also heard unconfirmed reports that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden would be present.

QUEBEC, Aug. 14—The attack strategy of the United Nations today came under the personal supervision of the United States military and naval high commands, whose arrival here was made public by officials charged with making announcements on the forthcoming meetings between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Traveling in advance of the President, the military and naval leaders of the United States arrived in Quebec and immediately plunged into the Herculean task of designing the blows that observers here feel may well spell the end of the European conflict before January 1944.

On the scene here were army chief of staff, Gen. George C. Marshall; navy chief of operations, Admiral Ernest J. King; Army Air Forces Chief H. H. Arnold; Army Services of Supply Chief Gen. Brehon Somervell; and the President's personal chief of staff, Adm. William D. Leahy.

The leaders of the two English speaking allies, meanwhile, were expected to convene for final discussions within the next several days.

A F OF L DEMANDS QUICK VOTE ON SECURITY BILL

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, meeting in closed session in Chicago, called on congress today for immediate and favorable action on the Wagner-Murray-Dingell social security bill.

The bill, declared the council in an official statement, is needed to enable the government to cushion the shock of post-war economic upheavals.

Warning of dangers if enactment of the bill is delayed, the statement said: "There are indications that the war may end before even our most optimistic hopes and it is just as vital to the welfare of our country to be prepared for peace as it is for war."

It further declared that "if action on this bill is postponed until next year it may become a political football in the 1944 campaign... this would be regrettable, because the bill is essentially a non-political measure."

The bill, according to the council's statement, would cover fifteen million agricultural and domestic workers and self-employed persons who cannot now get the protection of old-age and survivors insurance.

It would place unemployment on a uniform federal basis and provide help, hospitalization and maternity insurance for the first time.

It would also provide unemployment insurance to young men in the armed forces who may not find jobs immediately after demobilization.

Gasoline Ration Coupon Values Drop To Three Gallons Sunday Night

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14—Gasoline ration coupon values in 20 middle and southwestern states will be cut from four to three gallons beginning at midnight Sunday. Announcement of the slash was made today by OPA.

The curtailments in the Midwest and Southwest were based on new gasoline allocations assigned to this area by Petroleum Administrator Ickes. He reduced the daily quota of gasoline for civilian consumption in the 20 states from 740,000 barrels daily to 620,000 barrels.

As a result of the 15 percent reduction in supplies, OPA General Manager Chester Bowles said that there was no alternative to a reduction in coupon values.

ODT Director Joseph B. Eastman said that the new gasoline rationing program will not affect necessary commercial motor vehicle operations in the Middle West and announced that a supplementary allotment of 14,000 barrels of gasoline daily has been granted by Ickes to restore necessary commercial vehicle traffic in the East.

In addition to the cuts in coupon values in the Middle West and Southwest, the occupational driving of persons, such as salesmen, who use their cars in connection with their work, will be reduced immediately from a maximum of 720 to 480 miles a month. Home-to-work mileage will not be reduced, however.

Bowles explained that "A" book holders who require additional occupational mileage will be eligible for supplemental "B" and "C" rations. Likewise, supplemental bookholders who are unable to meet their occupational driving needs with the reduced coupons may apply for restoration of the lost mileage on or after August 23.

A statement on the new gasoline program will be given by Bowles over the Blue network Sunday from 8:15 to 8:30 p. m. EWT.

States affected by the reduction in coupon values are Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and New Mexico.

Another Vermilion resident, Mrs. Burton Backus, was taken to a Lorain hospital in serious condition.

STRIKE DELAYS RIFLE BARRELS, SHELL STEEL

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 14—Production of steel for shells and rifle barrels was at a standstill in the Buffalo plant of the Republic Steel Corp. today as an "unauthorized" walkout in the conditioning department spread throughout the entire factory.

Nine open hearths and two blast furnaces were shutdown, and approximately 2,300 workers affected by the walkout.

The work stoppage, termed "unauthorized" by a United Steel Workers (CIO) official, centered about the alleged refusal of a supervisor to permit replacement of an ill worker.

BULLETIN

LONDON, Aug. 14—Nazi Germany has served an ultimatum upon premier Pierre Laval of France, demanding cabinet posts for Marcel Deat and Jacques Doriot, France's leading fascists, the Algiers radio reported today.

The ultimatum was said to contain the following demands:

- 1.—Deat to be named minister of war and the interior.
 - 2.—Doriot to receive the portfolios of propaganda and labor.
 - 3.—The French government to return to Paris from Vichy.
- "If Laval refuses to admit these two men into the French government," the Algiers announcer said, "the Germans will set up a government in Paris which will not include Laval."

By International News Service

The Nazis in Sicily today decided they had absorbed enough punishment at the hands of the Americans and the British and began a full-scale evacuation of the Mediterranean island across the straits of Messina to the Italian mainland.

Official announcement of the would-be Axis Dunkirk came from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters which said that numerous evacuation craft were engaged in taking the entrapped German-Italian troops off the northeast corner of the Italian isle.

Although the bulletin said the evacuation was "in full stride" there was no indication that it was a disorderly retreat. On the contrary, headquarters said it was a steady withdrawal with rearward forces offering stout resistance to provide cover for the main units to retire.

Bridgehead Crumbling
Nonetheless, the main Messina bridgehead seemed disintegrating. Only hours after Randazzo, key communication center of the entire Axis defense line, fell to the victorious United Nations forces, headquarters announced capture of five more strategic points.

American units of the seventh army, under Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., drove along the northeast coast to seize Piraino, while other Yanks occupied Floresta, north of fallen Randazzo.

The British Eighth army, under Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, pushed up the east coast toward the vital port of Taormina and captured Riposto, Giarre and Milo. These three towns are grouped together 35 miles below Messina.

While the German high command strove to extract its battered forces from the island, which at the closest point is but two miles from the Italian mainland, United Nations naval and aerial forces sought to smash the evacuation. Warships, including the deadly little torpedo boats, sought to intercept the Axis craft, while Allied air fleets pounded the evacuees from the skies.

Russ Move Ahead

The Russians, meanwhile, vented their fury on Hitler's soldiers, unleashing a third offensive. This new Soviet drive was aimed at the important railway town of Smolensk, 160 miles northwest of Orël which recently was liberated from the Nazi yoke.

Elsewhere on the 400-mile central and southern front, Red army units experienced success. At the southern end of the line, hard-driving Soviet forces slashed at the very outskirts of the Ukrainian

The Grubb brothers, both of whom are members of the Jehovah's Witness sect, failed to report when the August contingent of draftees left Circleville.

According to Selective Service law both must be given notices that they are delinquent. In this manner they gain an opportunity to change their minds.

TWO DIE, DOZEN HURT AS STREET CARS COLLIDE

CHICAGO, Aug. 14—A toll of two dead and a dozen persons injured was counted today in the crash of a runaway street car, its motorman unconscious at his controls, into another street car.

Victims of the accident were Clyde V. Malbone, 40, a motorman off duty, and Charles A. Franden, a broommaker.

Both victims and all the injured were aboard the runaway trolley when its flight ended at a busy triple street intersection when it rammed a street car which had halted for a traffic light.

The motorman of the runaway car, Fred J. Wischweek, 52, was seriously hurt and taken in a dazed condition to the Alexian Brothers hospital.

He was unable to explain what preceded the accident but George Weig, 17, a high school student aboard the speeding car said the motorman collapsed at his controls shortly before the accident.

ian metropolis of Kharkov. A report from neutral Stockholm, so far unconfirmed, told of fierce fighting in the northeastern suburbs.

Another report, also unconfirmed, came from the Algiers radio which said the Red army had captured Lozavaya, important railway junction 65 miles east of the Dnieper river. Zanozaya, another rail station, 15 miles southeast of Spas Demensk on the Smolensk railway, fell to the Red army on this latter front, centered about 80 miles north of Bryansk, the Red army already has liberated more than 100 localities. Bryansk is the target of another drive.

Plane Center Blasted

United Nations flyers, continuing their fight against German aircraft production centers, opened a new theatre. Strong forces of B-24 Liberator bombers, operating from the Middle East, blasted plane plants at Wiener-Neustadt, south of Vienna in Austria.

The raid was the first from the Middle East against this area and involved a flight of at least 2,000 miles.

In the southwest Pacific, Japan felt the weight of United Nations air strength. Some 177 tons of high explosives were rained upon the key enemy base at Salamaua in New Guinea, causing such damage as to have Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters report that the main portion of the base "has virtually ceased to exist and the whole area is in ruins."

Munitions dumps, exploding under the Allied bombardment, sent flames soaring 6,000 feet into the air, returning flames reported. Other allied airmen struck at Kahili airbase on Bougainville island and at gun replacements near Vila on Kolombangara, both in the Solomons group. While this occurred, American jungle fighters edged closer to Balok harbor, last enemy stronghold on New Georgia. Headquarters said they had advanced a mile nearer to the port.

That still greater blows are to be dealt the various Axis partners was seen in the announcement that military, naval and air high commands of the United States arrived in Quebec for talks preceding the forthcoming "victory" conference of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Ohio Maternity Bill Payment Plan Meets With Federal Approval

Maternity bills of wives of non-commissioned Circleville and Pickaway county men who are serving their country in army, navy, marines or coast guard will be paid by Uncle Sam.

An Ohio program allowing a maximum doctor's fee of $40 has received the approval of the United States Children's Bureau, and is being put into operation immediately.

Expectant wives of service men are asked to apply at the office of the city and county health departments to obtain application forms. Forms are to be sent immediately by Dr. R. H. Markwith, Ohio health director, to 204 city and county health offices in Ohio.

Here, Circleville women are asked to apply at the City Cottage, West Franklin street, for their applications, while Pickaway county women will obtain their applications from the office of Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, in the courthouse. However, none has arrived yet.

The assistance will be available to expectant mothers, wives of service men, regardless of present economic status. The program provides maximum hospitalization for 14 days with a recommended minimum of 10 days.

Dr. Markwith said that Ohio has been allocated $20,000 to finance the program the balance of August. An allowance of $60,000 is being asked for each full month.

The state health department will serve as administrative agency with the federal government providing funds for these services; prenatal care, delivery and hospitalization and post-confinement examination of the mother and a physical examination of the infant when six weeks old.

The physician's top fee of $40 includes prenatal care, $25 for delivery and $5 for post-confinement examination. He agrees to accept no additional payment from the patient or her family.

Uncle Sam will probably pay hospital ward-rate costs to a maximum of $6.50 a day. If the attending physician determines that additional services are necessary, such as the use of an ambulance or special nurse, Uncle Sam will also meet these expenses.

When the expectant mother fills out her application for care and presents her physician with proof that she is an enlisted man's wife approval by the state department is routine.

The department will accept as proof of her status a government allotment check made out to her or any franked envelope addressed to her by the husband. This evidence must be presented to the doctor when the wife submits the application to him. She must identify her husband by name, serial number and service mailing address.

On the reverse side of the application, the doctor requests authorization for the patient's care, indicating the services he considers advisable. He also designates the hospital she is to enter.

The state health department will pay directly the physician, hospital and other parties who contribute services. This phase of the work is mandatory under federal regulations.

The program also finances care for infant children of service men. Application for this may be made by the mother after the child's arrival. The plan allows a maximum of $20 in doctor's fees to care for the child if he or she becomes ill before the first birthday. This service will continue until the $20 fee expires, with office and hospital calls listed at $2 and home calls at $3. Application for additional funds may be made if necessary.

States high command plunged this important Canadian city into a new welter of speculation on what was in store for Germany, Japan, and Italy. But the sobering announcement from Moscow that Stalin had not been invited to the conference still remained uppermost in the minds of diplomatic observers.

Apparently to officials gathered in Quebec, Stalin's statement, issued through the official Russian news agency, served to remind them that the United Nations still had international political problems—and those problems still faced solution.

Officials' Mum

Virtually an entire day's efforts by correspondents failed to elicit any official response to Russia's assertion that Stalin had not been invited to attend the Quebec talks.

Lacking official clarification, two interpretations were placed on the Russian announcement:

1. That Russia was further indicating her desire to carry on the war and the peace under her own dictates, and,

2. That the Quebec talks were concerned only with the Pacific theatre of war—where the USSR is not involved.

On the latter point, observers have been forced to the conclusion that the previous five meetings between Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill have brought decisions which concerned the European war, in the main.

Further, the recent presence in Washington of high United States military leaders from the Pacific theatre of war indicates that Pacific war plans are already advanced, and discounted speculation that offensive operations against Japan were the primary reason for the current meeting.

Further, Allied strategy, from the repeated words of Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill, involves the defeat of the European partners of the Axis first, before the final blows are struck against the Nippon aggressors.

In any event, it may be assumed that the forthcoming conferences will examine and re-examine Allied strategy in all theatres of war, and that the decisions arrived at will be reached because they spell the most effective means of ending the war as quickly as possible—and with the smallest loss of life possible.

CITY COUNCIL DELAYS FILLING GAPS IN RANKS

City council is expected to wait until next Wednesday evening before it chooses a councilman-at-large to fill the vacancy left by resignation of W. E. Wallace and before it swears in Ray Cook as second ward councilman to fill the vacancy left by death of Julius H. Helwag.

A conference had been scheduled for Friday evening in the office of Solicitor Joe W. Adkins, but it was cancelled because some members of council were unable to attend. It is believed now that council will put its job filling problem first on its agenda next Wednesday evening, picking the new councilman and then swearing in Mr. Cook.

Either Ray B. (Hominy) Anderson or Troy W. White will win the councilman-at-large job for the rest of the year because both were nominated at Tuesday's primary. The manner to be used in picking the new councilman is not yet known. Cook was nominated Tuesday for the second ward post.

After the two vacancies have been filled council is expected to get down to business, recent meetings being brief because only four members have been active in council's affairs. Frank A. Lynch, fifth member, is unable to attend because of illness.

dent said, "on which we base our hopes for a better future for the world."

"First—respect for the right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live. When the Atlantic Charter was first signed, there were those who said that this was impossible of achievement, and yet, today, as the forces of liberation march on, the right of self-determination is becoming once more a living reality."

"Second—world-wide collaboration with the object of security, for all; of improved labor standards, economic adjustment and social security."

Would Extend Benefits

He declared that the benefits of Social Security should be extended to "farmers, farm laborers, small businessmen, and others working for themselves or in occupations specifically excluded by law."

"That humanitarian law made a real beginning toward the abolition of want in this country," the President said.

"More than 60 million workers with their own contributions are building security for their old age and for their families in case of death."

"Several million are already enjoying benefits. However, in all fairness, and in all equity, we should extend these benefits to farmers, farm laborers, small businessmen, and others working for themselves or in occupations specifically excluded by law."

"We should extend Social Security to provide protection against the serious economic hazard of ill health."

"We are now fighting a great war. We fight on the side of the United Nations, each and every one of whom has subscribed to the purposes and principles of the Atlantic Charter."

"Today, we stand on the threshold of major developments in this war. We are determined that we shall gain total victory over our enemies, and we recognize the fact that our enemies are not only Germany, Italy and Japan; they are all the forces of oppression, intolerance, insecurity and injustice which have impeded the forward march of civilization."

"PENCILLIN BABY" NOW ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—New York's "pencilin baby" today appeared to be on the road to recovery.

Two-year-old Patricia Malone, to whom a supply of the precious new drug was rushed Wednesday night, in an effort to save her from death, was reported in a "serious," but not "critical" condition at Lutheran hospital.

Dr. Dante Colitti, resident surgeon, who rushed the drug to the baby from the E. R. Squibb laboratories in New Brunswick, N. J., said the battle against septicemia seemed to be won.

VIRGIL POLING AIDS WAR WORK AT DARTMOUTH

Virgil Poling, son of Mrs. John Neuding of Circleville, is playing a role in the war effort although he is not wearing a uniform. Poling, a graduate of Salt Creek township high school, Ohio State and Yale universities, has been in the staff at Dartmouth university.

Now he is training Uncle Sam's navy youths who are enrolled in the V-12 program and assigned to Dartmouth. There are 2,100 blue-jackets and marines training at Dartmouth to be ensigns and lieutenants, and in the hands of Mr. Poling and others of the Dartmouth faculty rests the success of their schooling.

The program carried on at Dartmouth is a liberal arts course with several special military subjects introduced.

Students are subject to strict discipline.

A photo in the August 1 publication of the New York Times shows Mr. Poling with three V-12 students studying a ship model.

a lie detector test, he broke down and confessed the crimes, police said, and then led them to the bodies of the slain twins. The Buchanan boy was found dead and bleeding in a field in West-lake village.

The bodies were found lying face down in a wooded section of Bay village, just east of Cleveland. Bullet holes were in the back of their heads. The twins, according to Mrs. George Collins, 44, their mother, left home about 10 a. m. Thursday to report to the Lake-wood country club for caddy duty. They never reached the country club.

Inspector Story, who revealed that Hager had served an auto theft term in the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, said the youth confessed he picked up the twins Thursday afternoon in front of a theatre as they were hitchhiking to the golf course. He said the twins were slain some time during the night. He also confessed the attack on the Buchanan boy, according to Story.

Police further revealed that Hager was committed to the psychopathic ward of the hospital last July by his mother when he threatened to violate his parole and steal tires for spending money. He only recently was released at the request of his mother, officials said.

Asked why he committed the crime, Inspector Story said the youth answered: "I shot them for the heck of it. I didn't like them."

Pilots returning from the assault on Rome said that all missiles fell in the target area and no religious or historic edifices suffered in the precision assault designed to cripple Axis war traffic.

THE NEW CONFERENCE

CONFERENCES between Roosevelt and Churchill are becoming frequent enough to be regarded as routine. But they are still news when held, and they make greater news afterward. For out of every conference comes some great new move, not immediately, but with a clear connection. Will this one be the forerunner of invasion of Europe? Only time will tell, but the time begins to look short.

Stalin still holds off from personal presence at these meetings, but a British and an American representative were conferring with him at the time. It is evident that he keeps and is being kept in close touch with all British-American developments. Talk of serious differences may be discounted.

LEGITIMATE APPEALS

MEN accepted by draft boards have a perfect right to appeal, and should not be criticized for doing so. This timely reminder comes from a Midwestern lawyer who helped organize the draft work in his community. Too often harassed local boards, overworked and finding difficulty in making up their quotas, intimate pretty plainly to a draftee that if he appeals their decision to induct him he is a slacker and downright unpatriotic.

They are wrong. An orderly way has been established for getting the army that is needed, and an equally orderly way of appealing from injustices that may have been committed in the process. To appeal from a draft board's decision is no more unpatriotic than to ask for a rehearing of income tax liability.

FEWER MEN IN JAIL

THE state of Illinois reports that the population of its three major prisons has dropped to its lowest level in 13 years. The chief reasons are given as war and more work—the two reasons when analyzed becoming one. The crimes of today are not engendered by unemployment and forced idleness. Every man who wants a job can get one, and good pay along with it.

There are always a certain number of crimes springing from abnormalities in human nature and human living. Heredity and environment both have a share in developing criminals—environment playing, it is believed, the major role. For environment includes the home training of any child after it is born, and the child of bad heredity is apt to have also a bad home start. Something can be done to lessen such crimes, both in numbers and in seriousness, but there will doubtless always be an irreducible minimum which must be provided against.

Bad housing plays a serious part in developing gangs of hoodlums, some of whom develop into criminals. Unemployment of parents contributes to this. "Drink and the

DAY VS. NIGHT BOMBING

WASHINGTON — When Churchill and Roosevelt were in Casablanca, the British Prime Minister had a friendly argument with U. S. air generals regarding the feasibility of daylight bombing. Churchill was against it; arguing that the British system of night bombing was much safer, did more damage to the enemy.

However, latest figures just received by the War Department show that Gen. Ira Eaker was right in sticking to day bombing. These figures show that U. S. bombers have knocked out Nazi fighter planes at a rate ten times greater than the British.

Here are the figures: In July U. S. air-men destroyed 500 Axis planes, lost 108 bombers of their own. In other words, they knocked out five times as many planes as we lost.

In the same months, the British knocked out 129 enemy planes, but lost 258 of their own. In other words, the British lost two planes for every one they knocked out.

The British were operating at night when they could not see the enemy so well, but also when the enemy could not see them. American planes, operating in the daylight, could better concentrate on enemy fighter planes, but also were better targets for the enemy.

LUSH BONUSES

If the Boren Committee really wants to dig below the surface in the newspaper situation, it might probe the lush bonuses paid by the International Paper Co. to its executives.

At a time when the paper cartel has been gouging publishers for higher prices and throttling newspapers by supplying less paper, it has also been paying juicy sums to International Paper officials.

Since 1930, International Paper has not paid a penny in dividends on its common stock. Yet at the same time International Paper has paid annual salaries of $412,250 to six of its officials. Then in addition to these salaries, the same officials got bonuses of $112,500.

President Richard J. Cullen received a salary of $102,000 plus an additional $50,000 paid every year toward a retirement fund.

The vice president, W. N. Hurlbut, gets a salary of $43,600 and in addition a retirement benefit of $10,000 annually. Also, Hurlbut has borrowed $25,893 from the company. There is nothing illegal about this, though borrowing by officials from their company is a special privilege and constitutes an additional burden on the company's financial position.

In addition to its officers and directors, International Paper also paid 14 other employees total salaries of $383,900.

Russia at War

ambassadorial or official versions—the correspondents get around more, have a more comprehensive view of what the common people think.

THE LAST TRAIN FROM BERLIN seems to me the best account of the German situation, and RUSSIA FIGHTS, by James E. Brown (published by Scribners, New York), far and away the most vivid picture I have encountered of what the Russians are doing.

The Russians, according to Mr. Brown, are thinking this—they are for Russia and nobody else. They have done four-fifths of the work in stopping the Nazis and when they get what they want they are probably going to quit. Unless Japan attacks them, they are not going to declare war on Japan for us or anybody else. Their post-war policy is isolationism and plenty of it.

They are going to rebuild Russia their own way. They had felt that before the war they were surrounded by a hostile ring of capitalist states, and the fact that they got very little help when they were in trouble has made them sore.

I must say this attitude makes sense. It stiffens your backbone. It is a good antidote to the treacle about internationalism of Mr. Lippmann and Mr. Willkie.

The account of Mr. Churchill's visit to Moscow is rich. He appeared at an official Soviet banquet in overalls, which didn't make near the hit that he makes at the White House.

Mr. Willkie's visit made a much better impression. The accounts of these two visits, the pen picture of Stalingrad, the factory workers, the amazing development of Russian women, nurses and ambulance drivers at the front, the Bakunin trials, the probable successor to Stalin, are all well worth reading in detail.

Here are some thoughts: An official said, "Our neighbors start the wars, we don't. There would be no wars if the other nations of the world adopted our social system."

Hospital Work

I was interested in the accounts Mr. Brown gives of the work of the hospitals. However we may feel about it here, socialized medicine works in Russia. The nursing is efficient, the hospitals clean, the medical attendance intelligent, and the patients are individualized in treatment as they should be.

"There are fewer deaths from serious wounds than in other wars; we take care of casualties better; we give emergency treatment on the battlefield," a military surgeon told the author. "Then the sulfa drugs have saved many lives. We get a good deal of sulfa from America, but we need more of it."

All that sounds very alert and up-to-date.

Leave My Heart Alone

ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

BUFFY WAS every bit as delighted at the surprise of having Martin for a dinner guest as Karen had known he would be. He was allowed to have dinner in the big dining room, because of this guest, instead of in the nursery quarters, and Buffy rather monopolized the conversation—which was mostly about Christmas and Santa Claus, only a few days away—as well as most of the attention.

All in all, dinner went off very well, Karen felt. Her father apparently had taken to Marty, too. He was obviously pleased at knowing anyone who had so completely won the affection of his grandson, since Buffy was his grandfather's chief delight now.

As for Marty, he made himself perfectly at home with an ease that a diplomat might well have envied and even in his worn slacks and soft-collared shirt he was not out of place at the long, lace-covered table, gleaming with fine china and polished silver, served with the decorous and deliberate dignity of old Jan.

Later Martin expressed an interest in the old man, who was unquestionably a "character," asking Karen a good many questions about him. How long had he been with the family? Did he have any family or relatives of his own? What was his native land? He was a queer old duck, wasn't he, with that poker-face and those shrewd eyes that belied his mask of perfect servility?

Karen answered them as best she could. He had been with the family as long as she could remember; as far as she knew he did not have anyone of his own, except some distant relatives still in the old country; she was not sure of his nationality, Austrian or Swiss, maybe; yes, he was queer, but he had been a good servant before he got so old and he was so faithful that her father would not think of firing his place. "Dad says Jan has a sixth sense," she finished, "eyes and ears in the back of his head as well as the front. But I think you are nearer right when you call it a poker face."

They had wandered down on the beach with Buffy, who was hunting shells, until time for that young man to have to go to bed. Martin picked up a shell, examining it, before he answered idly, "You don't think he could be German, do you, instead of Swiss? Does he get mail from the old country? The post-mark would tell."

Karen said she had never taken notice. Her answer was idle, indifferent, too; then pricking up an interest, added in a different tone, "But if you mean by that there's a chance Jan would still be loyal to Germany, have contacts there, I'm sure you're wrong. He's been away too long, living in this country."

Martin tossed the shell away. He said, "I didn't mean anything, especially, although time is not what always decides loyalties, I fear. You might make a point of finding out—about the old fellow's mail, I mean—just out of curiosity, not that it would mean anything."

"I'm sure Jan is as loyal to America as he is to us," Karen defended out of her own loyalty, and although she did not hold any particular amount of that same feeling, or even of liking, for old Jan. Buffy came running back to them just then and, after they had examined the shells he had gathered, Karen said it was time to go back to the house. Buffy wanted to know if Marty couldn't please come up to the nursery with them and help see him into bed.

Karen said it would be all right with her, if Marty wanted to come along, to which Martin replied that he wouldn't miss coming for anything. "I see," he added, "that you still let the door to this tunnel stay unlocked. I thought I warned you, Kay, that you ought to see that it is locked at night."

Karen said she had spoken to Jan about it. She was sure it was kept locked after sundown, which was not due for another half hour.

"I supposed he was only a houseman," Martin said. "Jan, I mean. Does he tend to outside duties as well as his age?" This question sounded idle, too, yet significant. Karen was amused, thinking it funny for Marty to be that interested in the old servant. She would not have credited Martin with a suspicious nature, but one never could tell what would pop up next in him. She said that Jan still held on to certain duties which he considered his priority. "In fact," she added, "if he were allowed, he would just about run everything, including the family as well as the household."

Martin laughed, saying, "I'll bet he doesn't get away with that with you. I should like to meet the man who could run you, although maybe I shall, if your aviator drops in, as you said he might, this evening. Or maybe I'd better run along before he comes."

Karen told him not to be silly; she wanted him to stay and meet Paul. And Buffy, ready now for bed in his striped pajamas, his little face shiny and washed, said, after his prayers had been heard and Karen had tucked him in with the usual good night kiss, "Why don't you kiss Marty, too? She kisses Paul," he tackled on with the irresistible aptness only a child could use.

"She does?" said Martin, raising his brows in mock surprise and giving Karen a look of mock reproof. "That doesn't seem quite cricket to leave me out, does it, young man? Suppose you make up for it by promising to come on that fishing trip with me now pretty soon, say just as soon as the holidays are over and your delightful—"

If your birthday is today, you are courageous, quick-tempered though partial—must find time to deliver you across the bridge?" "I'll come!" The little boy's face glowed now. "I promise, Marty. What does 'partial' mean? It it another funny word?"

Karen said she did not consider it funny—or Marty, either—always. She said she was never too busy to take time out for Buffy, and that as soon as the holidays were over they could have their fishing trip. Apparently she had forgotten her resolve not to risk contagion and germs by allowing Buffy to visit the trailer camp again, for it had been decided that the fishing trip would require a full day, maybe longer, and that the little boy was to be allowed a real visit at the camp the next time.

"Does that mean I can stay and cook the fish we catch over that fireplace you built yourself, Marty, and eat them with you, and maybe sleep with you in your little house on wheels?" Buffy was almost beside himself with the excitement of such a thrilling prospect.

"You can't stay here," Martin returned. "You can stay as long as your guardian angel here will let you, and it will be hunky-dory with me."

"I hope you catch some fish," Karen contributed demurely. "We'll see how long when the time comes," she added to Buffy, giving him a final good night pat, "but now you must settle down, like a good boy, and not think about anything except the sandman."

"Hunky-dory," Buffy said, with an imitation of Martin's wide grin, as well as his words. "You may bet your life that I shall."

"Maybe we should be a little more careful what we say in front of Buffy," Karen said, as they left the nursery. His mother, Denis, might shudder could she hear her son talk now, but surely she would rejoice could she see the happiness in his face.

Martin said he did not think so; he believed in talking and acting naturally in front of any child. By the way, he changed the subject abruptly, "since we are on the second floor, why can't we go a bit farther? This would be as good a time as any for you to show me your tower. I really would like to see it, if you don't mind."

There was not any reason why she shouldn't. "There isn't much to see," she explained as she led the way to the end of the long hall where the narrow door was that led on up another flight and then up even narrower, winding stairs into the high tower.

They were both a bit out of breath when they got there. The sun had set so that the light was dim. "I'm afraid there isn't even a lamp," Karen said. "No one ever comes up here any more, you see." "I see," Martin said. "But there is a lamp and plenty of matches, but don't light it yet, please, Kay."

G. O. P. Post-War Advisory Council Seeks Party Unity

Republican Chiefs to Meet Sept. 6-7 to Plan Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Where the Great Lakes meet, it is possible that "international" Republicans and "national" Republicans may meet, too. Anyway, they are going to make a good try on Sept. 6 and 7 at Mackinac Island—pronounced "Mack-in-aw"—nestled in the Michigan straits.

It will not be the first battle ever fought on Mackinac Island, eight miles round, which played a dramatic part in the development of the old northwest. The historic whitewashed Fort Mackinac which tops the bluff is a picturesque reminder of that.

Three flags . . . British, French and American . . . waved over those ramparts before peace came to that beautiful island, now called the shrine of Michigan. But to Michigan politicians, it's "the summer capital."

The fighting among the assembled 49 senators, congressmen, governors, and party officials will concern—"How far—from a vote-getting viewpoint—should the Republican go internationally?" Although the purpose of the releases from Republican national committee headquarters announces: "The Republican post-war advisory council meeting will plan the program upon which America will depend for guidance in the years ahead."

Today, Republicans do not agree. They know they must, if they are to win come 1944.

One faction will gather in what is left of the isolationists on a policy that roughly is, "Of course, we must co-operate with other peace-loving countries, but America first." (They still don't think in world terms.)

Then there is another group ready to grab this hand-painted opportunity to push the endorsement of the Ball-Burton-Hill-Hatch resolution which asks for senate action now on a pledge of world co-operation. Feared by the old guard, it is significant that neither of the two Republican authors, Senator Ball of Minnesota or Senator

Burton of Ohio, are among the 49ers.

The stop-Willkie crowd, which is strong in Michigan despite the fact that Wendell Willkie beat President Roosevelt in Michigan by a narrow margin in 1940, will be using the strongest language.

Combating these will be the Willkie "One World" group, whispering that he has the answer to vie with the voter's belief in the Roosevelt way in affairs international.

But the faction most apt to rustle up the greatest support is composed of enthusiasts for the Vandenberg-White Senate Resolution No. 16. It is the kind of compromise sought by those who know the importance of party unity.

In the last hectic days before the congressional recess, this resolution was slipped into the senate hopper without much fanfare. Any other time, it would have caused plenty of stir. After all, it is startling when two senators, usually poles apart on international issues, agree on a post-war formula.

Michigan's Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg had an 18-year investment in the isolationist way of thinking. Yet, he teamed up with Maine's Senator Wallace H. White, Jr., who has consistently gone along with the administration's foreign policy. In fact, on the foreign relations committee, he is considered the Republicans' spokesman for Willkie internationalists. Significantly, both are members of the committee. Vandenberg is one of the "eight silent senators" keeping the Ball-Burton-Hill-Hatch resolution from seeing the light of a senate day.

The Vandenberg-White resolution will not be talked about lightly on the Grand hotel porch, said to be the longest in the world, but upstairs in the famous presidential suite, overlooking the quiet meeting place of Lake Michigan and Lake Huron.

Skeletonized, this proposal suggests:

1.—Prosecution of the war to conclusive victory.

2.—Participation by the United States in post-war co-operation between sovereign nations to prevent, by any means, the recurrence of military aggression and to establish permanent peace with justice in a free world.

3.—Present examination of these aims, so far as consistent with the united war effort and their ultimate achievement by due constitutional process and with faithful recognition of American responsibilities and American interests.

God Provides for His People

The children of Israel, wandering in the wilderness, grew hungry and reproached Moses and Aaron for bringing them thither; but the Lord sent manna in the morning and quail in the evening so they were fed.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scriptures—Exodus 16, 17

Every day the children of Israel were told to gather enough manna for one day only, but some gathered enough for two days, disobeying the Lord, but what was left of it had worms in it and stank.

Later they lacked water and again complained bitterly to Moses and Aaron, but the Lord told Moses to take his rod and to smite a rock and water would come out of it, and he did so before the elders.

Moses stood on a hill to see the Israelites fight Amalek; when the rod was held up Israel won; when down, Amalek, so Aaron and Hur held up Moses' tired hands until Israel won.

Lutheran Church To Reopen After Renovation of Interior of Building

Pastor To Preach On First Of Request Series

Trinity Lutheran church will be reopened Sunday for worship service at 10:15 a. m. after having undergone renovation for the last three weeks.

The Rev. George L. Troutman said Saturday that through the generosity of Miss Mary Heffner the church interior has been completely renovated. The art glass dome and window, all walls, woodwork, floors, church pews and all other furniture and furnishings have taken on a new appearance.

The work was done by Charles Egelhoff and Co., Columbus, interior decorators.

The Rev. Troutman's sermon subject Sunday will be "Ten Thousand Dollars and One Year to Live".

This will be the first of a series of five request sermons.

Other subjects requested will be preached on the following Sundays:

August 22: "Sitting Where Others Must Sit";

August 29: "Woe Unto Him Who Leadeth Others Astray";

September 5: "Fret Not Thyself";

September 12: "God's Measuring Stick";

Last year's series of sermons were the requests of five men of the congregation. This year's series follows the requests of women of the church.

JESSE CRAWFORD

Jesse Crawford, one of America's foremost pipe organists, who has been sacrificing financial gain and studying intensively for four years in order to lead a fuller musical life as composer, orchestrator and conductor, will realize this ambition when he picks up the stick to conduct his own orchestration of his own music on "This is the Enemy", August 19, 8 p. m. over the Mutual network.

One of radio's most interesting stories is behind Crawford's switch to another horse in midstream. California-born Jesse Crawford learned to play the harmonica at the age of two; by the time he reached sixteen, he was playing the organ in movie houses. But this promotion from mouth organ to pipe organ failed to satisfy him even when he was booked to play at the opening of the New York Paramount and stayed on for six solid years; not even when he went on an international tour which took him to the London Palladium or on a cross-country tour which took him to all the big movie houses in American cities; not even when radio gave him a chance to play the pipe organ for more people than all his cross-country, international tour and movie audiences combined.

Crawford still wanted a more complete outlet for his talent but it wasn't until he met the late, famed Joseph Schillinger, teacher of Gershwin and Glenn Miller and literally every real musician in the business, that he decided to make the definite switch. Under Schillinger's tutelage, Crawford started to study, retaining only enough pipe organ assignments to bring in an income. One of these assignments—there were only two—is organist on Joan Saine's "Valliant Lady" series daily over CBS.

ARMY SERVICE FORCES

The story of a young Virginian who came up the hard way to become a sergeant in the Corps of Engineers will be told on the "Army Service Forces Present" program, which will dramatize the tale of "Your Son's Lieutenant," on Saturday at 7:30 p. m., on WCOT. The story takes its title from the conclusion of a letter written by Lieutenant Barker to the family of Sergeant Foster Perzel, who was killed while taking a mine apart. RADIO NEWS NOTES

Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy are back in Hollywood after a month of camp shows for U. S. and Canadian servicemen in Newfoundland. They're feeling fit and full of fun, ready to return to the Sunday airwaves on September 5. Paul Whiteman, Dinah Shore, Paul's 35-piece orchestra, chorus and guest stars have been holding down the airtime in fine style during the Summer months. Bergen, with Charlie and Mortimer Snerd, played more than 75 free one-hour shows for the troops and natives of Newfoundland on his camp tour. They made the Newfoundland round-trip by Army plane.

The newest employee of "Everybody's Inn," Sammy Kaye's Wednesday night show aired at 8 P. M. over CBS, is Billy Lynn.

Billy plays the part of "Felix," a piano polisher and father of five motherless children. This is Billy's first appearance on a big network show. He was seen on Broadway not long ago in the popular comedy "Three Men on a Horse."

To countless young, ambitious girl singers, the thought of blending their voices with that of the master, Bing Crosby, is their idea of the "last word" in singing success—but also frightening. Trudy

Erwin, Bing's warbling partner, was scared at first but, after the first few notes she relaxed. Says Trudy: "Bing is so easy to sing with. Not that he phrases in the conventional manner—he strictly doesn't! But he is so casual and at ease himself that he just oozes confidence—and makes me feel right at home. I have to watch his lips carefully though, so I won't lag or get ahead of him on a duet."

Joe Julian's boss in "The Adventures of Nero Wolfe," it's Joe who has the upper hand when they get together on a tennis court. Every Monday afternoon the pair get together for an hour's game of tennis and every Monday afternoon Joe walks off with the winning score.

County War Bond Quota for September Set At $1,331,000.

PUBLIC ASKED FOR INCREASE IN PURCHASES

Total Less Than In April, But Banks Not To Help Swell Fund

CLARK WILL MAPS DRIVE

Township Obligations To Be Established For Campaign

Pickaway county will be called on to buy $1,331,000 worth of government bonds in September as its share of the U. S. Treasury Department's $15,000,000,000 nationwide War Loan fund.

Clark Will, chairman of the Third War Loan drive in Circleville and Pickaway county, said that the amount, while not so large as the $1,661,000 quota reached in the April campaign, is much heavier so far as the public is concerned since banks are not being assigned any quota in the September campaign. In the April drive to sell War Bonds in order to help Uncle Sam finance the battle against the Axis banks subscribed heavily to cut the public's obligations considerably.

Up To Public

"The entire quota this time is to be met by the public," Mr. Will pointed out in discussing the rapidly-nearing campaign.

A well planned organization brought about success of the April War Loan drive, and the chairman is now in the midst of perfecting his September campaign unit. No announcement of the committee's personnel is expected for several weeks, however. The campaign will be centered in September.

The $1,331,000 quota is being broken down this time into township obligations, War Loan campaign leaders in Columbus determining the obligation of each township according to its population and its value.

"This campaign," Mr. Will declared, "is the largest financing operation ever undertaken and to reach this quota will require full bond buying cooperation of every individual in the city and county."

Bonds to be sold in the September drive include War Bonds of Series E, Savings Bonds of Series F and G, Treasury Savings Notes of Series C, as well as two and one-half and two percent Treasury Bonds of 1964-69 and 1951-53 issues.

TURK GROWERS WARNED ABOUT FLOCK DISEASE

Turkey producers of Pickaway county were urged Saturday by the Ohio department of agriculture to keep on the alert for outbreak of disease prevalent in turkeys if they wish to produce their share of the 10,000,000 pounds of this year's crop which the government is buying for Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day dinners for American servicemen overseas.

D. D. Moyer, extension poultry specialist at Ohio State university, calls blackhead disease the saboteur of turkey flocks. He warns that this summer's heavy rainfall in many sections has made conditions favorable for blackhead to wipe out whole flocks of turkeys within a few days' time.

Despite the fact that the August-September crop of birds has been set aside by the government for the armed forces, agricultural department experts say that Ohioans will still be able to obtain their usual Thanksgiving turkey.

The freezing order, designed to insure sufficient turkeys for shipment overseas, will not bother Ohioans, too much, state experts said, because the Ohio crop is not yet ready for market. Most of those to be shipped abroad early in the Fall will come from southern and western states.

Turkeys with blackhead disease soon become droopy, their wings tend to drag, and a typical wobbly gait is noted when the birds move about. They sit with their neck drawn back against their body and with their back humped. Watery, sulfur-yellow or greenish-yellow diarrhea is evident.

RESERVATIONS BEING LISTED FOR BREHM TALK

Reservations for the public meeting to be held Friday evening, August 27, by the Circleville Chamber of Commerce at which time Congressman Walter Brehm will discuss "problems of the day" with Circleville and Pickaway county residents should be made with Mack Parrett, C. of C. secretary, as soon as possible.

Pointing out the importance of the meeting, A. V. Osborn, president of the Chamber of Commerce, urged Saturday that all persons interested in the affairs of government should hear Congressman Brehm.

Location of the meeting has not yet been decided, depending to a large extent on the number of persons who make reservations.

Eldred Cayce, vice-president of the C. of C., will preside at the gathering since Mr. Osborn will be on vacation at the time of the meeting.

AUTO STAMP LOST

Robert Starkey, 360 Walnut street, told police Saturday that the federal use stamp was stolen from his automobile.

dent, especially after they show the external symptoms.

When turkeys are put on range, the extension poultry specialist warns that they must be completely isolated from chickens as a safeguard against blackhead. He adds that it takes more than a year to clean up a blackhead disease infested range. At least two years and preferably three years should elapse before turkeys are put on a range that was used previously for turkeys or chickens. It is important that no chicken or turkey manure be spread on the land during this time.

Moyer reports that recently the drug called phenothiazine has become widely used as a treatment for parasites in livestock and has been used successfully in stopping losses in blackhead outbreaks. One or two pounds of phenothiazine are recommended for 1,000 growing turkeys. Do not feed the turkeys the day before the treatment, so the birds will be hungry. Then mix the phenothiazine with enough mash so that all the turkeys can feed on it for one or two hours. Moisten the feed to encourage consumption of the drug.

When treating individual birds, feed nothing for 20 hours before the treatment is administered. Give a single half-gram tablet of phenothiazine to growing birds and a one-gram tablet to turkeys that are mature.

Mr. Redman's coming to Monroe depends on whether he can obtain a lease from the board at Sugar Grove.

The Monroe board also elevated Clyde Borror, a teacher last year, to the principalship of the high school.

Both Redman and Borror hold master's degrees from Ohio State university.

HOG PRODUCERS URGED TO SELL ANIMALS EARLY

Livestock dealers, following the suggestions of the War Meat Board, issued an appeal Saturday to hog producers of the country to adopt a policy of early marketing of hogs. Producers were asked to market their hogs as soon as they attain adequate finish for slaughter rather than continuing to feed them for additional weight and finish.

Porkers of 180 to 260 pounds have been bringing best prices on livestock markets everywhere. The War Meat Board appeals for this cooperation by producers for the two-fold purpose of continuing feed grains and bringing about a more uniform distribution of marketings during the months immediately ahead.

Local livestock men point out that cooperation of producers is essential to the successful handling of the hog marketing problem during the Fall and Winter months. With the 1943 Spring pig crop 22 percent larger than last year and in view of existing facilities for slaughtering and processing and the manpower shortage, hog slaughtering and processing capacity may be overtaxed during the heavy marketing season next Fall and Winter unless marketings are kept orderly and as uniform, from week to week, as possible.

The War Meat Board indicated that a sharp increase in hog marketings was not expected before October. Therefore, if producers would adopt a policy of early marketing immediately, the additional hogs marketed in the next 60 days would be promptly and efficiently handled and, to that extent, relieve the pressure of heavy receipts later in the season.
